Safe and Assured: Solutions for Everyone

At Technical Alarm Systems we take your safety and security very seriously, which is why we will endeavor to create a secure environment for you, your employees and your premises.

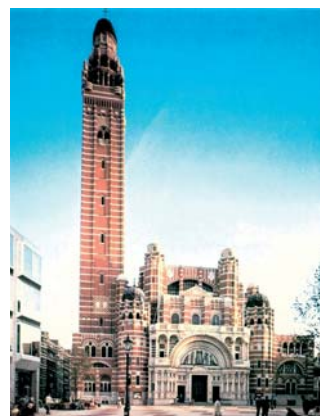

We supply all forms of alarm systems, security devices and safety measures, from CCTV units to nurse call systems; fire extinguishing equipment to emergency lighting. We have a solution for all of your safety and assurance needs and a servicing team to ensure your needs are well maintained.

Deciding which system suits your requirements can be difficult with so many on the market. It is our aim to guide you through the process, giving you expert advice to ensure you are happy with the end result. We are dedicated to creating the best possible working relationship with all of our customers.

Established in 1999, we have been serving businesses nationwide with the highest quality alarm systems on the market today, with an efficient, friendly and personal service. We are recognized as one of the leading and highest quality suppliers in our field, as our high profile clients such as the National Trust and Southampton City Council will testament to.

Please feel free to call and discuss your needs at any time. We are happy to visit your premises and offer a complementary face to face consultation.
