Built-up letters are ideal for permanent, prominent signage that will help promote and enhance your company's image.

Built up letters offer flexibility and limitless originality in style and identity; they can brand the exterior of a building, or enhance a building's interior.

We can design and fabricate your signage requirements in a vast choice of shapes, sizes and materials. These materials include but are not limited to stainless steel, aluminium, aluminium composite and rigid plastics.

Letters can be produced as flat, two dimensional characters, or with return depth to create a three dimensional structure.

For optimum effect, we can illuminate the individual characters of built up letters with conventional lighting or with contemporary low voltage LED via two means - either face or halo illuminated. This not only reduces the power consumption but offers very low maintenance.

The Sussex Sign Company has a substantial selection of freestanding signage solutions each one of them able to offer independent signage yet can still be incorporated as part of a co-ordinated system when a total solution is needed.

Monolith and totem signage can be manufactured in a variety of materials; from strong steel frames to panels made of aluminium composite, acrylic or flexiface.

Pole or post-mounted signage systems are simple yet effective sign solutions. Pole and post mounted systems are classics by design yet simple to construct giving an easy solution to freestanding signage.

There are numerous styles of post-mounted signs from standard flat panel signage to bespoke shaped corporate signage.

At The Sussex Sign Company we understand the importance of regular sign maintenance and repairs.

We offer various types of maintenance contracts to help extend the life expectancy of your signage and ensure the safety of your product. Having invested money in signage to boost your brands image and enhance your business, you want to ensure that your signage remains visually impressive and structurally sound.

Why Maintain your Signage?

The need for sign maintenance and inspection isn't an option. It is a legal requirement in 3 different statutory regulations, with the potential for criminal proceedings against those not complying namely:

The Health & Safety at Work Act, Building Regulations and Town & Country Planning.

The owner of the sign is ultimately responsible for the ongoing sign maintenance, inspection and necessary repair of the sign (as well as the structure or area that the sign is fixed to).

The Sussex Sign Company is only obligated to advise the warrantee of the sign and the serviceable life of the sign if correctly maintained, so please take the initiative and service your sign to ensure it remains clean, safe and operational.

- Planned preventative maintenance programme.

Protect you Brand and public Image

A pre-planned sign maintenance contract is the most effective way to optimise the performance of your sign and brand. A scheduled inspection allows us to find any defects before they become hazardous or lead to failure in the signs performance. Signage maintenance and repairs play a critical role in your brand identity and commercial success is highly dependent to some degree on the perception you project to your clients in the appearance of your premises.

Signage is generally the first impression potential customers get, this is why it is vital to keep your signage looking good at its best all the time.
